

Bertrand Russell has a Message for You and for all Librarians

So has John Metcalfe, himself a Librarian

If YOU order this work for your Library and thus provide the means to print more books and allow more people learn about Semantography, then—in the opinion of Bertrand Russell, and in his own words—

You “will be performing an important service to Mankind”

John Metcalfe, Principal Librarian of the Public Library of New South Wales, Sydney, second largest city, after London, in the British Commonwealth, has recommended in the attached letter, the purchase of this “extensive work” by the larger “Public and University Reference Libraries throughout the world.” He approved the price of £A5.

See the full statements of Earl Russell, Professors Lancelot Hogben, Carleton Washburne, Henry Brose, James Hemming, etc., in the attached Brochure No. 6, and Leaflet No. 8.
